Sudoku is a numbers game that has been popular in Japan for several decades.

Recently it has gained popularity here in the United States as well.

Commuters all across the country can be found riding the subway and toiling away at these puzzles. Over the past year, regular Sudoku puzzles have been added to The Los Angeles Times, The Washington Post and The Boston Globe.

The aim of the puzzle is to enter a number from 1 through 9 in each cell of a grid.

Certain cells are prepopulated. Each row, column and region (3x3 square that has been highlighted) must contain only one instance of each numeral.

Best of luck!
